I am writing to urge you to do all you can to stop Duke Power's Atlantic Coast Pipeline.

Duke has been up to no good for as long as I can remember. Way back in 1974, when I was a grad student at UNC-Chapel Hill, we had them union-busting at their mine in Brookside. Over the last two decades, we've had the coal ash debacle.

Today, we have them building the infrastructure for an energy system that is incompatible with containing the damage of climate change. Methane is not the fuel of the future, and fracking is not an extraction method for the present. We've got to act fast, and stopping the Atlantic Coast Pipeline is great place to start.

I hope you will act promptly. We will give you lots of cover in terms of promoting the science, showing up at regulatory hearings, and taking direct action along the proposed route. But you've got the authority to stop this poorly conceived project dead in its tracks.

Please show up.
